PREFACE

AS dispersal through the auction room is one of the easiest and quickest methods of realizing upon a library, it might have been expected that the business depression, which was so general throughout the country during the nine months included in the auction season of 1907-1908, would have shown an increase in the number of books offered for sale and a corresponding decrease in price. This is, however, not markedly the case. The number of lots included in the present volume is almost exactly the same as in the 1907 volume, and prices have, generally considered, held up very satisfactorily, especially in the case of the rarer items.

It is not easy to generalize upon the season's business, as a whole. Few great libraries or collections have been dispersed and the larger number of the catalogues have, as usual, been made up of smaller consignments. The collection of George M. Williamson, sold by the Anderson Auction Company on January 30 and 31, was perhaps the most important library of collector's books dispersed during the year. Mr. Williamson had been collecting first editions of English and American authors for more than twenty-five years and within its limits his library was one of the notable collections in this country. He early appreciated the importance of "association" copies and many of his books were presentation copies or contained the author's autograph. The collection of first editions of Robert Louis Stevenson was the finest and most complete, without much doubt, ever brought together, and the same statement might be made of the works of Lewis Carroll (Charles L. Dodgson). The Stevenson set, begun by Charles B. Foote, was retained by him when he sold his library in 1894-1895 and additions were made to it from time to time until his death, when Mr. Williamson purchased it entire and added it to his own then important collection, disposing of the duplicates. Further additions were afterwards made to it from the collection of Alfred J. Morgan and from other sources. Indeed, during the few years following Stevenson's death when his books were being most sought after, the most interesting items which came upon the market were secured by one of those three collectors, Foote, Morgan or Williamson. A descriptive catalogue of the Williamson set of Stevenson was printed at the Marion Press in 1901. The first editions of Lewis Carroll were in large part the author's own copies and included, besides an unusual series of his leaflets and several trial forms of title-pages and bindings, a copy of the excessively rare genuine first edition with the title-page, dated 1865, of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland." Mr. Williamson was one of the first American collectors to appreciate the importance of having his "Pickwick" in the correct earliest state. He had not achieved absolute perfection, but the set was probably the finest ever offered in an American auction room, and brought $755.00. Washington's copy of "Don Quixote," 4 vols., 1786, with Washington's autograph in each of the four volumes, and his book-plate in three volumes, brought $1050.00 the highest price of the sale.

Messrs. C. F. Libbie and Co.'s sale of November 25, 26 and 27, including the library of Matthew A. Stickney, was principally Americana, being especially rich in early New England Almanacs, Connecticut and Massachusetts Election Sermons, long series of New England newspapers, and local histories and genealogies. Included, though it does not find a place in the present record was a genuine impression of Paul Revere's engraving, a "Westerly View of the Colledges in Cambridge, New England," which brought $700.

The library of the late Robert N. Sayre, including many important books, was offered in three sales, by Mr. Henkels on November 6 and 8; December 12 and 13 and January 28-31. A set of the famous original folio edition of Audubon's "Birds of America," an exceptional fine copy, the plates being loose, with full margins, never having been bound, and the text having a presentation inscription in the author's autograph, brought $3200. This set was, it is reported, "bought in" by the Sayre estate. It is the highest price reported for a single lot during the season.

The collections of William H. Buckler, John D. Elwell, Bowen Whiting Pierson, Preston A. Perry, Lewis H. Brittin, Charles E. Pyser, Samuel W. Pennypacker (Parts V. and VI.), and Horace E. Hayden all included important books. The most notable sales of Autographs were those of Joshua I. Cohen and Henry Goldsmith, though many miscellaneous collections of autographs were held during the season.

Pamphlets on American railroads; American Song Books; books and pamphlets on Christian Science by Mary B. G. Eddy and others; and books on the buccaneers and pirates have been features of several of the season's sales and seem to indicate new lines of collecting. Several nearly complete sets of the publications of the Bibliophile Society have been offered and values seem to be on the increase. Books containing colored sporting prints have been offered more frequently than usual in American auction rooms and good prices have been secured for volumes in collector's condition. The fact that the present volume includes a far greater number of old Bibles than generally found in the preceding ones does not, we believe, indicate any revival in the collecting of editions of the Scriptures.

The 12,700 lots included in the present volume have been selected from 169 catalogues, representing 351 sessions held on 275 days and aggregating about 116,000 lots.

The initial preceding the date in the record of miscellaneous sales is that of the auctioneer under whose management the sale took place.

A. is The Anderson Auction Co.
H. is Stan. V. Henkels.
L. is C. F. Libbie and Co.
M. is The Merwin-Clayton Sales Co.

The date given is that of the first day of the sale, and the price is the price for the lot.
